

About 22,000 people attended this year's Toronto Comic Arts Festival, according to Chris Butcher, the event's co-founder and director. That's up from 18,000 in 2012 and 2013. In a thorough post-event report, Butcher said Sunday in particular saw more attendees than in 2013 at the Toronto Reference Library, the hub for the event. "In addition [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/06/2014-tcaf-attendance-grows-to-22000-2015-dates-set/>