

After eight years, Alan Moore has completed the epic first draft of his long-discussed novel Jerusalem, which clocks in at more than 1 million words. "Has finished the first draft of his second novel, Jerusalem," the writer's daughter Leah Moore announced Tuesday on Facebook. "Now there's just the small matter of copy editing a more-than-a-million [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/09/alan-moore-finishes-million-word-first-draft-of-jerusalem/>