

Just in time for the premiere of X-Men: Days of Future Past, high-energy U.K. garage inventor Colin Furze has created fully retractable metal claws that will undoubtedly make him the envy of every Wolverine fan, and the prime suspect in countless watermelon stabbings. While we can take issue with his “adamantium” claim in the video [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/05/mad-inventor-creates-fully-automatic-wolverine-claws/>