

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2010/12/64644/>

Comic-Con International aren't the only ones having trouble selling things on the internet. Mattel's action figure collector's site MattyCollector.com released several new items today, including a Masters of the Universe figure, Superman and General Zod figures, and (the reason I was checking the site) a new Darkseid/Kalibak two-pack for their long-running Justice League Unlimited line. [...]