

When I reported the other day on the winners of the Japanese government's manga competition, it reminded me there was another international manga contest, the Morning International Manga Competition. I wasn't the only one who wondered what had happened to the contest, as someone posted the question on the Tumblr of the manga publisher Vertical. [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/02/morning-international-mangacomics-competition-is-no-more/>