

Oni Press has ended its business relationship with packaging supply company Uline over its CEO's financial support of an Illinois group that went to "unseemly lengths" last year to try to block passage of that state's marriage-equality bill. In a letter signed by a dozen employees and posted Tuesday on its blog, the Portland, Oregon-based [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2014/04/oni-splits-with-vendor-over-ties-to-anti-marriage-equality-group/>