

After the last week or so of “We don’t publish comics for kids” and “[Depicting rape] is the same as, like, a decapitation” and “comics follow society, they don’t lead society,” among other chestnuts, I’ve been thinking about the mentality and philosophy that produces those positions, and how it reflects on the state of comics. [...]

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/08/the-leaders-arent-leading/>