

It's little surprise that the editorial board of the conservative Washington Times didn't embrace the announcement that the new Ms. Marvel is a 16-year-old Muslim from New Jersey, but the newspaper's actual response is a bit ... bewildering. One might even describe it as eerie. Beginning a Sunday editorial with a declaration that "diversity and [...]"

Read more: <http://robot6.comicbookresources.com/2013/11/washington-times-frets-about-muslim-eerie-gay-superheroes/>