

At the end of last week director David Slade tweeted that he would be bringing us some official Daredevil news this week. Well, that "news" may not be much more than we already knew. Check out this tweet from Latino Review's El Mayimbe.. So David Slade's big Daredevil news is that either his deal is now officially closed or that Kyle Killen delivered his draft. He sounds pretty sure about it, but obviously we will have to hear from Slade ourselves. Anyway, I really wasn't expecting too much more than this at such an early stage...just a tad more on the story maybe! Anyway, even if this is all he has to reveal to us, at least it means things are officially up and running on the project. Oh, he also says Josh Hartnett will be playing Matt Murdock;) Article image courtesy of Obsessedwithfilm By TwitterButtons.com

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=38462&t=David_Slades_iDaredevili_News_May_Not_Be_Much_News_At_All