

One of the directors in contention to direct a Wonder Woman film, Nicolas Winding Refn, has recently revealed his pick for who he wants to play the Amazon princess. In an interview with New York Magazine, Refn had the following to say: At the U.S. premiere of Refn's Ryan Gosling neo-noir Drive at the Los Angeles Film Festival last night, Refn (director) referenced the Wonder Woman project he's long wanted to make, then pointed at his Drive co-star Christina Hendricks and said, "If I ever get to do it, she's going to be it." Hendricks would almost certainly be game — she told Rachael Ray last year that "I've been wanting to wear that outfit my whole life ... I had Underoos — I had Wonder Woman Underoos." Refn is actually my choice to direct the film. Click here to see my recently posted editorial on the history of all the

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=39828&t=Director_Nicolas_Winding_Refn_Reveals_His_Casting_Choice_For_Wonder_Woman