

Thanks to the guys over at Rope of Silicon for the following excerpts. Be sure to follow the link over to the site at the bottom of the page to hear more from the director. On Whether He Met With Christopher Nolan To Discuss Directing Superman: Yeah, with Chris Nolan. That was pretty scary. This was the first time I'd met him on a professional level and [he's a] very, very lovely man. Very smart guy. Didn't talk about Superman once. [He was] kind of feeling me out as far as where I am in my career and whether I'm ready for it. And, you know, I think Zack Snyder is going to make something visually spectacular and with Chris Nolan really hands on there, and his keeping the script where it needs to be, I'm sure it'll be fantastic. On Whether He Would Have Directed The Movie: I think I would have taken Superman. I

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=34164&t=Duncan Jones On Losing iSuperman And Passing Up The Chance To Direct iDREDDi>