

After working as a stuntwoman on the likes of 2012, Hancock and Supernatural, Ky Furneaux has recently finished work on one of her biggest jobs yet – doubling for Jaimie Alexander's Sif in upcoming Marvel Studios blockbuster, Thor. With the movie only weeks away, I got in touch with Ky to talk about her work on the movie and she was kind enough to go into great detail about not only her work on Thor, but also her career, past and future projects (including The Avengers) and much more. What made you decide to become a stuntwoman? I had been an outdoor guide for about 8 years which is a very active and interesting job but I was kind of getting tired of not coming home to a warm bed every night so I decided to change careers. A kid on one of my courses suggested stunts as we were playing

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=35482&t=font_color_redEXCLUSIVEfont_Interview_With_iTHORi_Stuntwoman_Ky_Furneaux_Sif