

The Warner Bros panel at CinemaCon has just screened footage from Martin Campbell's Green Lantern. The first trailer for the movie was met with a pretty mixed response from fans and critics alike, but almost everyone I have spoken to or read tweets from that attended the screening seemed to be very impressed indeed. Alex Billington from Firstshowing.net was one such attendee, and was kind enough to give me beak down of the footage that he was shown.. We saw 4 scenes. First was Abin-Sur piloting his ship and being attacked by Parallax - was awesome. Then he ends up on Earth, next scene was Hal talking with Abin while he was dying. Scene seemed choppy, but he gives him ring. Next was him saying oath for the first time, then he goes to Oa immediately. Then we see him talking with Tomar-Re on Oa with Geoffrey Rush's voice and a

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=34270&t=iGreen_Lanterni_CinemaCon_Footage_Description