

Back in 2009, prior to being attached to the role, the actor behind 'Clinton Barton' of Marvel's The Avengers, Jeremy Renner revealed Marvel's plan to use the Kenneth Branagh-directed Thor film to feature the live-action debut for the archer; Hawkeye. While Renner debunked the possibility soon after, it wasn't confirmed 'til earlier this year that the cameo was in full affect. And now, the cameo that aroused hype just by thought has found its way online, in low-quality. Whether you've seen Thor, and want to relive the brief moment, or you haven't, but don't mind being spoiled, check out the almost-minute video below. For a recap how the archer will look in the forthcoming Avengers film: it isn't purple like in the 616 comics, but more similar to the Ultimate Hawkeye. It's a black sleeveless leather-like costume with a little bit of maroon. There is the "Hawkeye" symbol on the chest and he

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=36820&t=Hawkeyes\_Cameo\_Featured\_In\_Thor\_Emerged\_Online\_In\_Low-Quality