

According to an Israeli site Xnet, via Badass Digest, relatively unknown actor Alon Abutbul has been cast in Christopher Nolan's much-awaited film The Dark Knight Rises. While Google's translator had a part in understanding the site's report, which often spreads inaccurate info, they seem to suggest the actor will "embody the image of a particularly evil mad scientist." The site's full translation reads: Blog of a song by Lilia, the partner of Abutbul, Israeli actor was cast to play the new film series "Batman." Or as she wrote it: "It was eleven thirty at night. After receiving a questionnaire said the new Batman role." Another one who decided to report the role of director Doron was Abutbul Sabri ("connected") piped up his Twitter account: "Oh, I forgot to update questionnaire Abutbul new Batman was cast as the bad one. Honor Salonica" honor indeed. Sources close to the player confirmed the reports officially told

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=37182&:t=Israeli_Actor_Alon_Aboutboul_Portraying_A_Mad_Scientist_In_iThe_Dark_Knight_Risesi