Thanks to the guys over at Newsarama for the following excerpts. Be sure to follow the link at the bottom of this page to read the entire interview, as well as for more links to the other two parts where the comic book writer goes into more detail about his current Ultimate Universe projects, Miracle Park, the Kapow! Comic Con and much more! On The Chances Of Seeing A Sequel To The Successful 2010 Movie, Kick-Ass: "It's funny, actually, because we knew from the beginning that there would be. We ended the first one with a trailer, practically, for it, with that little teaser at the end. The movie was very, very cheap to make, it only cost 28 million dollars, so we thought, unless we screw up really, really badly here, of course there will certainly be [another] movie. We made a hundred million dollars at the box office, and then another
