

Ok, so this was a controversial one! As I knew it would be. I'm not going to go into my reasons for choosing the scenes I did too much since I do in the original article, but I did point out that the poll would not simply be the best fanboy action scenes, and judging by your own choices for what should have been on the list that is exactly what many of you wanted. Sorry! Some of the scenes were not even directly related to the movie's story, but were more about an image or moment that stands out in our memories or captures the essence of the director's vision. Which is why things like The Joker hanging from the window made the cut but not the interrogation scene, or Superman's flyby but not the helicopter catch etc. All great moments and if the list had of been longer they
