

This past day has been a great day for fans of Green Lantern, we've seen some great behind-the-scenes footage of the film, as well as a few absolutely amazing featurettes which gave us a mountain of brand new footage. I think it's safe to say that with the film being released in just a matter of weeks (it feels good to say that) that things are certainly going to be put into over-drive as far as footage, TV spots, pictures, and clips, are concerned. Well here's a pile of screengrabs of some of the more interesting shots from the various featurettes released recently. Some of them are good quality while others unfortunately weren't available in HD, but I hope you enjoy them either way. [Click The Images To Enlarge]

Unfortunately the rest of the screengrabs aren't in as good of quality but there's still some awesome shots. Green Lantern Hits Theaters On June 17th!
