

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/VoicesFromKrypton/news/?a=27864&t=Smallville_Could_There_Be_Talks_of_the_Show_Continuing

Here's what he writes: "A hit drama series whose final season was announced in the last 12 months may not be ending after all! Know which one yet? I'll give you some clues...Though the network told the world that the plug had been pulled, apparently not everyone involved in the show was in agreement about that. In fact, to this day, talks are ongoing behind scenes to extend its run, one way (in its current form) or another (in a tweaked form or even as a series of TV movies). Sound like something's rotten in the state of Denmark? Yeah, I'm with ya there." Could this possibly be Smallville? What other show has announced its final season that could potentially return in the form of TV movies if not a regular series? "Something rotten in the state of Denmark" could be a clue that derails that possibility, but is there another show