

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/VoicesFromKrypton/news/?a=28087&t=Smallville_Finale_Interview_-_Should_the_Last_Episode_Be_Called_Superman

Among the highlights: TWO-HOUR FINALE? BRIAN PETERSON: "it's a possibility. We'd love that and it feels like the right way to end." KELLY SOUDERS: "We don't know yet. The beauty of it is that the last two episodes go hand-inhand, so no matter what happens, it will be an event." GIVEN SMALLVILLE'S SINGLE WORD TITLES, WILL THE FINALE BE "SUPERMAN"? KELLY SOUDERS: "That is not safe to say. We were actually just talking about it [on Friday], and we still don't have a title. And literally, with the amount of stuff we have to lock down for that episode, the title is the least of our problems. It might be a no-brainer [such as 'Superman'], but I'm not sure." For additional information, including some news about Lois & Clark, just follow the link.