THR is reporting that despite reports circulating online earlier today, Naomi Watts and Eva Green have not been cast in The Dark Knight Rises. The film reportedly needs to fill two prominent female roles, a love interest and a villain. This from Heat Vision... Sources tell Heat Vision that Keira Knightley, Anne Hathaway and Jessica Biel are due to test for roles in the Warner Bros. superhero tentpole in the next two weeks. Also testing are relative newcomers Kate Mara and Charlotte Riley. Hot British actress Gemma Arterton was also scheduled to test but, as Heat Vision first reported last week, Arterton just landed the female lead in Paramount's Hansel and Gretel: Witch Hunters and might now have scheduling issues. Hawksblueyes: There's some fairly decent names being tossed around in this report. I don't think I would mind any of the lady's mentioned, getting a part in the film.
