

The world premiere date of Transformers: DOTM has finally been confirmed, as it will debut at the Moscow International Film Festival on June 23rd, which is the first night of the festival. In addition, rock band Linkin Park - who has contributed to the soundtrack of every film - will be performing a free concert to celebrate the premiere. From EW: Transformers: Dark of the Moon opens on June 29, but some lucky Muscovites will get a first look on June 23 when the Michael Bay action film has its world premiere on the first night of the Moscow International Film Festival. To celebrate the event, Linkin Park, which has contributed a hit single to each of the Transformers films, will perform a concert live in Moscow's Red Square. Transformers: Dark Of The Moon hits theaters June 29th!
