

Empire was able to catch up with Zack Snyder while he was promoting Sucker Punch to talk a little bit about what it was like to work with Christopher Nolan on The Man Of Steel. "Chris has been amazingly generous with me. He's making [The Dark Knight Rises] but he takes time if we're knocking around ideas for the script. We'll all sit around in a room, beat it around and try to figure it out. He knows what its like to make a movie, and he wants us just to make the best movie we can. He is interested in helping out with out messing up the process, and I think that's amazingly generous of him." Snyder was asked if Nolan and him ever talk about who would win in a fight between Batman and Superman: "I have not had that conversation with him, I don't think he would enter in to that
