

I'm tempted to say that the best thing about this week's episode of Constantine was the preview for next week's episode. Rather than looking like the 2nd episode of a new show trying to build an audience, it looked like a throwaway episode from a show well into its run that could afford to take a week off. Memo to Producers Daniel Cerone, David S...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/constantine-darkness-beneath-review_article_140785.html