

When the first issue of Action Comics #1 came out in June 1938, then DC Publisher (known as National Allied Publications) Harry Donenfeld thought that Superman was such a silly character that he ordered his editors not to put him on a cover ever again. Sure enough...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/mania-comic-book-hall-fame-inductees-1930s-1940s_article_139671.html