

Someone wiser than me once noted that superheroes define this era in moviemaking the same way gangster films did in the 1930s and musicals did in the 1950s. Walt Disney already owns the biggest superhero franchise in the world right now, and it's a testament to their evil genius that they would put out something like Big Hero 6 as a part of that...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/mania-review-big-hero-6_article_140815.html