

AMC needs to give The Governor his own show because his back to back solo episodes have been the best thing of this current season. They should also spin off and do a dramedy centered around Tara and Alicia as they navigate the difficulties of being lesbians in the zombie apocalypse. This week's episode is all about the death of Brian and the rebirth of The Governor, and it's all thanks to Martinez...

Read more: http://www.mania.com/walking-dead-dead-weight-review_article_138823.html