

A few things (with minor SPOILERS): 1). Kinda directionless – This episode wasn't really about anything. So far this season, each episode has had a clearly defined plot: prison clearing, guided tours of Woodbury, dealing with inmates, etc. Looking at my notes, there wasn't really a central defining theme of this episode. Things do happen, but because of the split [...]

Read more: <http://weeklycomicbookreview.com/2012/11/12/the-walking-dead-s03e05-review/>